1. Irati, a small, growing town near Curitiba, is rapidly becoming a center of Communist Party of Brazil (PCB) and Polish Communist activity. Propaganda is sent from the Polish Consulate in Curitiba to Irati via railroad workers.* Packages containing propaganda material had been sent by mail until it was discovered that women workers in the Irati Post Office had learned the names of Communist agitators and had been destroying all propaganda material sent to them.
2. Antonio Ferreira, Jr., and Pedro Lotchakowski, who arrived in Irati in late December 1943, organized a clandestine Communist cell composed of the following persons:

Vigilio Trevisan
Clement Obys
Altino Miranda
Julio Adamowicz

Henrique Body and daughter Carmelina
Waldemar Spitzer
Euclides Avila

The following individuals are also important Communists in Irati:

Joao Cirino
Joaquim Cirino
Dobrzanski (fnu)

Estevao Sansao
Lili Floriani
Kazubek (fnu)
